SOUNDLESS SOUVENIRS ONLY KIND PERMITTED AT THE AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Quiet Dignity to be the Keynote and the Trouble Committee Will Make Trouble for Anybody Who Gets Noisy—Show Dates Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 6, 7 and 8.

Soundless souvenirs only will be distributed at Kingston's big automobile show to be held March 6, 7, 8, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, in the armory. The dates were agreed on quickly, as there were no other dates open and the soundless souvenir ruling was made after a suffering and super-heated member had inquired what in Halifax was the use of paying a couple of hundred dollars for an orchestra and then give away a lot of blinkey-blinkey-blam-blam horns and rattles that made so much noise nobody could hear the $200 orchestra play. Furthermore, it was stated, that just as a dealer was getting really eloquent and making an impression on a prospective customer it was very disconcerting to have some hand of youngsters equipped with souvenir rattles drown him out. Committees appointed at the meeting of the Automotive Dealers Thursday evening by President Black are as follows:

Army—Schryver, Relyea, Kennedy, Martin.

Music—A. H. Chambers, L. Brown, Holmstead.

Floor—Behrens, James Millard.

Program—Beichert, Martin, Low, Longendyke, Schenck, Boyce, Longyear, James Millard.

Trouble—John Millard, Longendyke, Austin.

Advertising—Sutcliffe, Keller, Glass, Morris, Cressler, King.

Decorating—Herzog, H. Brown, S. Van Kleeck, Kraft, Bush.

Tickets—Southard.

The Trouble Committee is to act as a board of censors on souvenirs and decide whether or not they are soundless and otherwise inoffensive. Certain business men having seemed to regard advertising in the show program as an act of charity, it was the general opinion that no canvassing for advertisements be done and that only exhibitors and members of the association be permitted to advertise in the program this year.

Although the foregoing is all the business transacted at the meeting, the session lasted until after 11 o'clock, discussion ranged over every known topic and scientific, social and theological points were ably and exhaustively debated.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

In presenting "Getting Gertie's Garter" at the Opera House tonight, the Chicago Stock players will be seen in one of the most successful farce comedies that New York has presented in theatrical ages; a play that has made hundreds of thousands rock with laughter.

The company's most successful engagement will be concluded tomorrow afternoon and evening with "The Love Test," a comedy drama that the critics styled as the successor to "Turn To The Right." A special price is made for all school children at the matinee tomorrow.

"Forgive and Forget," which is now showing at The Orpheum Theatre, represents the achievement of his great ambition—for he has made here a motion picture based on the theme that much of the unhappiness in the world is caused because people are not big enough to forget and forgive what others do—and that the world at large is too prone to condemn without knowing all the circumstances. And six big vaudeville acts. Tomorrow's feature is Shirley Mason in "Love Bound." Also a western drama, "Fighting Fists."

PROGRAM FOR LADIES' AID FUND TONIGHT

The evening of music and readings to be given at the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church this evening by Miss Marjorie Grene, pianist; Ralph A. Young, baritone soloist; Miss Ethel Mauterstock, reader; Charles J. Brandt, violinist; Mrs. Benjamin W. Johnston, soprano soloist; with Mrs. Putnam Cady as accompanist. It is for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, to go toward the fund they are raising for the equipment of the new building connected with the church. The program as arranged for this evening is exceptionally good as was to be seen in last evening's issue of The Freeman. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

Sahler Election.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Dr. C. O. Sahler Sanitarium, Inc., the following were elected directors: Charlotte A. Sahler, L. W. Atkins, L. H. Swisher. The inspectors of election were Henry G. Geschwinder and William D. Brinnier, Jr.

Crisis Near in Mexican Revolt

Rebels Now Control Or Menace All Oil Fields And Millions in American Property—U. S. Urges Obregon To Make Offensive.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Jan. 13.—With Mexican revolutionists in control of Vera Cruz and blockading and bombarding Tampico, the oil capital of the East coast, the belief prevailed among administration officials today that a crisis is impending in the struggle between the Obregon government and the De La Huertistas.

A decisive battle will have to be fought soon, it was believed, by observers today. Military observers expressed the opinion it would come in the vicinity of Vera Cruz, toward which city President Obregon is now marching a Federal force of 10,000 troops well equipped.

The American government's support of the Obregon government will be further manifest in a few days, by order from Washington permitting Mexican Federalists to pass from Naco, Arizona, to Texas, using American railroads for the journey. Only the consent of the governor of Texas today delayed the issuance of the order. The governors of Arizona and New Mexico have already telegraphed the state department their consent to the passage of Mexican troops through their states.

President Obregon is being urged by the American government to make all possible speed in forcing the issue with the revolutionists.

Bombardment of Tampico where there are millions of dollars in American investments, and hundreds of American residents, is regarded seriously by officials here.

The dispatch of American naval vessels to the oil metropolis ostensibly to "protect American lives and property," but actually to keep the port open and shipping on the move is under consideration.

The rebels have only two oil gunboats, the Tampico and the Sarazoa, according to information here.

Pastor Ingersoll Has Resigned

Wurts Street Baptist Church Receives His Resignation at Annual Meeting Thursday Evening—To Act on Resignation January 21.

The Rev. R. P. Ingersoll, for the past two and a half years pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, read his resignation at the annual church meeting held Thursday evening. Mr. Ingersoll stated that he desired to retire from active church work to take up his home at Mt. Tremper with his son who is engaged in business there. He also expects to devote his time to supply work in the various Baptist pulpits in the country.

In presenting his resignation, Mr. Ingersoll said:

This evening seems to be an opportune time to do what has been in my thought to do for some days. I therefore, at this time, submit to you my resignation as pastor of the church, to become effective March 31st. It was my intention to do this at an earlier date, but thought best to wait until after the week of prayer.

Ample time is afforded the church between now and the date mentioned to secure a successor who may be able to begin when the present pastorate closes, or soon after, and thereby prevent any prolonged break in the work. The church is in splendid condition for a new pastor, and it is my earnest prayer that one can be secured who will be able to carry on the work successfully in all departments of the church, and who will be especially fitted to lead the young people in a definite constructive program.

My decision was not reached hastily but came after what seemed to me to be a definite answer to prayer and other developments which followed. Conditions, with which most of you are familiar, seem to make it advisable for me to discontinue my work at this time.

This action brings regret and sorrow to both my family and myself, as our relationship with you have been pleasant and happy and we have formed friendships and associations here that have been a delight and will mean much to us through the years.

Our stay with you has been brief but it has not been without results. Fifty-three have been added to the church, forty-one by baptism, eleven by letter and one by experience. Many improvements have been made to the church property, both in the parsonage and church building, and we trust some service has been rendered the results of which cannot be tabulated.

I wish here to express my sincere thanks to every one who has supported me in the work by their prayers and co-operation, and for every kindness shown to my family and myself.

You will have our best wishes and earnest prayers. May the Heavenly Father guide you clearly and bless you abundantly.

The resignation came as a surprise to many of the congregation as Mr. Ingersoll had proven to be one of the most popular pastors the church had had, and under his pastorate the church had grown in influence. The congregation will meet Thursday evening, January 24, to take action on the pastor's resignation.

"Man or Monkey" May Be Puzzle For The Democratic Donkey if Bryan's Dr. Murphree Makes the Race

University President Denounces Evolution Theory—Says Bryan is True Friend of Democratic Party—Is Very Dry.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Gainesville, Fla., Jan. 13.—Evolution of man, what William Jennings Bryan scornfully terms "that monkey business," may become a potent issue in a presidential campaign.

This loomed as a bare possibility today when Dr. A. A. Murphree, Bryan's selection for president, bitterly denounced in an interview with International News Service the teaching of evolution in schools, colleges and universities over the United States. Dr. Murphree is president of the University of Florida.

"I absolutely refuse to believe that I spring from a monkey," he declared, "and evolution is far too dangerous a subject to teach young college students while their minds are in that plastic stage. They might be greatly influenced by this hypothesis, thereby having faith in the eternal truth of the divine creation shaken."

"The theory is advanced to account for the presence of man on

Leventhal Files Appeal Notice

Justice Joseph Rosch having denied the motion to set aside the verdict in favor of plaintiffs in the action brought by Fredenburgh Metzger Realty Company, Inc., against Hyman Leventhal to recover $1,000 commission in dispute growing out of the sale of the Kingston Hotel, Crown street, Van Riten & Cook, attorneys for Leventhal, have filed a notice of appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court from said judgment.

The case was tried in the December term of the supreme court, the jury finding for plaintiffs, and Justice Rosch granted a stay of 60 days for execution of judgment and a further stay of 30 days if an appeal was to be taken. The $1,000 is in the hands of County Clerk John H. Saxe where it was ordered to be placed for keeping when the action was begun. Frank W. Brooks is the attorney for the plaintiff-respondents.

Fish and Game Meeting Tonight

Public Cordially Invited to Attend Annual Meeting of Fish and Game Association at Court House Tonight.

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association will be held at eight o'clock this evening at the court house, at which time officers for the ensuing year will be elected and other important business transacted.

Interest in the work of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association has increased during the past year, as fishermen and hunters have come to realize they owe the association their active support and co-operation in return for the work of the association in stocking the streams and forests.

Fishing and hunting are becoming greater attractions each year to the New York visitor to Ulster county, and the entire county shares the benefits of their visits. Business and professional men and hotel and boarding house proprietors in this city and in every hamlet of the county benefit from the increasing popularity of Ulster county among the sportsmen of the state, and their membership in the association will result in still greater activity.

Greene county organized a Fish and Game Association several years ago and now has a membership of more than four hundred. The association's recent annual banquet was attended by 435 men, all of whom are actively supporting the association in its work. Ulster county has a bigger population and at tonight's annual meeting will be a good time to join the association.

LABOR TO KEEP BRITAIN FRIENDLY WITH FRANCE

By Telegram to The Freeman. London, Jan. 13.—Great Britain will continue friendly relations with France if labor comes into power, J. H. Thomas, one of the leading members of the Labor party, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Thomas spoke with authority, having been a member of the group of Laborite leaders who have been discussing questions of policy in Ramsay MacDonald's made premier in succession to Stanley Baldwin.

"We have been asked how we are going to deal with France," said Thomas. "We do not desire a break with France, nor do we desire any talk of war with France."

The Tory government is sending out whips urging all members to be in their seats Monday when a vote will be taken upon the Laborite motion expressing "no confidence" in the present Tory cabinet.

HOWARD SLATED FOR SHIPPING BOARD JOB

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington Jan. 13.—A dirt farmer will sit on the United States shipping board as representative of the interior states.

President Coolidge, it was learned authoritatively today, has decided to appoint J. R. Howard, of Iowa, long prominent in agricultural movements, as a member of the shipping board, at $12,000 per year, succeeding Edward P. Farley, of Chicago, whom the Senate commerce committee found to be geographically ineligible.

Rifles Used at Utah Execution

Omer R. Wood, Former Idaho Judge, Pays Penalty For Atrocious Murder Of Wife.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 13.—Omer R. Woods, today met death by a firing squad in the courtyard of the state penitentiary.

The former Idaho probate judge, denied his last hope for stay of sentence by the supreme court's refusal to intervene, went to the death he chose in preference to hanging for the murder of his wife, Marietta, two years ago.

Woods was shot at 8:17 a. m. He was led from the death cell between guards who walked with him into the snow of the prison yards. A black hood was placed over his head and he was strapped to a chair, immediately after the swift preliminaries had been completed the command to fire was given and five rifles, held by men who were concealed behind a muslin curtain cracked. They fired at a target painted over his heart.

Physicians rushed to his side immediately after the volley was fired and two minutes later pronounced him dead.

Woods was convicted of one of the most revolting crimes in the history of homicide in the West.

Born 43 years ago, of good family, near Knoxville, Tenn., Woods earned the money for his education as a lawyer by "picking tan bark." About 1909 he met Marietta Wood, daughter of a small farmer near Knoxville.

There was a romance, according to the story developed at his trial. Then Woods left. Later, upon graduating from law school he went to Idaho, rose to be probate judge at Idaho City and then about eight years ago he returned to Knoxville, married Marietta Wood and acknowledged her 15 year old daughter as his child.

Woods was appointed to the internal revenue service, auditing department. He resided in Washington and then came to Utah. He brought his wife and daughter, Tee Lee Woods, who entered the University of Utah.

The afternoon of January 9, 1922, Woods staggered from his burning apartment to tell excited neighbors of a bandit attack in which he had been knocked out and bound and his wife hurt. Firemen, summoned to suppress the blaze, found the body of Mrs. Woods blazing on a pyre of benzine soaked bed clothes in a rear bed room. Surgical examination revealed that her jawbone had been shattered by a blow, she had been strangled and the body set afire. Woods was held.

It developed he had purchased that day an unusual quantity of benzine and that shortly before he had taken out a policy on his wife's life in favor of himself carrying additional indemnity in case of death in a burning building. He was charged with first degree murder and convicted.

Desperate attempts to save him failed. Insanity was pleaded. Congressman Addison T. Smith and Burton L. French of Idaho, wired pleas for intercession to Governor Mahony. Woods produced affidavits charging another with the crime. But, after prolonged sessions of the state pardons board, clemency was denied, and referring to the executive sessions of the board, Governor Mahony issued the following statement:

"If the people knew all the facts they would have but little to say in the name of humanity."

Woods spent his last night on earth calmly. He ate a hearty supper of chicken. When the prison surgeon visited him Thursday Woods remarked:

"This thing of being executed is not so bad as I thought it was going to be."

Woods insisted upon his innocence to the end.

Official Board Meeting.

A meeting of the official board of the Eddyville M. E. Church was held at the close of the evening service on Sunday, January 13. The following officers were elected: President, M. K. Vredenburg; treasurer, Mrs. K. Vredenburg; secretary, Mrs. Mary Helena Kastner. Various reports given were very satisfactory and the pastor, the Rev. Harry Thompson, and the board, are looking forward to a very successful year.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE AMERICAN ELK

"I am also called Wapiti, as well as American Elk," said the big Elk.

"Of course you can call me by either name you choose and you will be speaking correctly."

"I do not mind, so that also will make everything very easy for you."

"People think we are very strange. Every year we get new antlers. They think it is so very curious. These antlers drop off below the burr and new antlers which are always covered with hair and which are soft and which have points are where the old ones were."

"Now when my antlers are growing I have to be careful for my antlers are tender when they are growing. They require my strength, too, so as to help them along."

"In the springtime I lose my antlers and in the autumn my antlers are at their best. For in the autumn I like to look glorious."

"You see, the springtime is the time for things to start growing and so I start having my antlers grow then, and so it is with all of my family."

"In the autumn we want to look magnificent just as the trees all look magnificent and just as nature is so glorious and wonderful and vivid and brilliant."

"But it is about the time when we're growing new antlers that I have been asked to tell."

"As I said new antlers begin to grow after the old ones have dropped off."

"In my skull are bony places with a kind of skin over them. This becomes very tender and delicate when my antlers are growing."

"Blood is sent to these places and that is why there is a drain on my body and why I am thin while I am growing antlers."

"It is during the summer months that my antlers are growing fast and then you will notice perhaps fever spots. The blood which is being sent to my head is helping these antlers to become strong."

"It is very remarkable, isn't it? And I attend to all this myself. All of us do."

"My new antlers in the summer time, when they are growing so fast, are covered with a kind of soft velvety hair."

"Now just before my antlers are their full size a bone ring forms about each antler near my skull."

"This stops the blood from coming into my antlers any more, for by this time it is no longer needed."

"Then my antlers dry up and become good, strong, hard, handsome bone."

"I rub off the velvety hair upon the trees and, alas, hunters look for that and know that we are about. Yet I must get rid of it then and I do not know what else to do with it."

"In the autumn we not only look our best but we choose our mates then."

"It is a good time to choose one's mate when one is looking one's best, for one wants to be a handsome husband, surely."

"I have also been asked to explain the difference between horn and antler. A horn is hollow and grows over a bony core and it is never shed except, they say, among pronghorn antelopes."

"Antlers, as you know now, are shed each year and grow again. They are of solid bone and they grow from the skull."

"We eat grass and weeds and shrub-trees and leaves. We also do well in zoos and the children thrive in zoo air, which is the way you'd speak of it, I suppose."

"Oh, yes, we are magnificent looking in the autumn, and at other times, too, surely we are interesting for we do so much and give up so much for the great antlers which we grow."

"And people are given a wonderful sight because of us. This is not concealed of me to say so, for I have been asked to tell the true story about our ways."

"Our voices are big and far-reaching. Some say our voices are gorgeous—almost wildly beautiful."

"Yes, we are liked, and we want to be liked."

"But oh, we want to be liked by people in parks who have us protected and not by hunters."

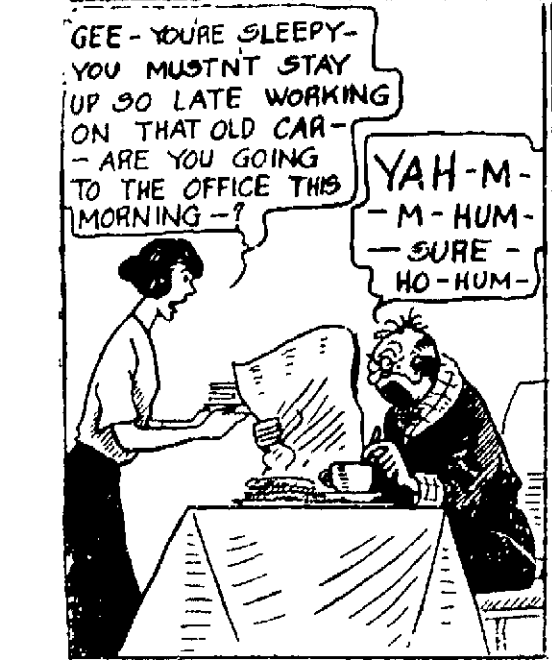

"We don't care to be liked by hunters. That sort of popularity does not flatter us in the least. Not in the least. In fact it makes us very nervous and unhappy."

"But we have many friends who protect us and who promise us safety in their parks."

Loose Children Purposely.

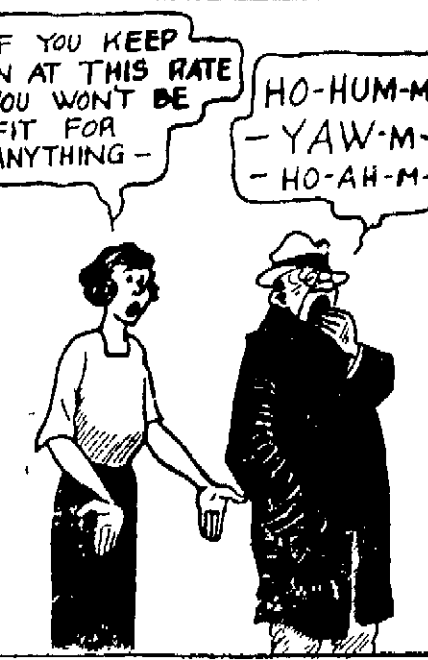

Women of the tenement districts have been known to purposely lose their children in crowds so as to have a holiday and to call at night at the various police stations, knowing their offerings will ultimately be taken there.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

Oysters are so universally liked that any variation in serving them is welcomed.

Broiled Oysters.—Drain large oysters, wipe dry, season with salt and pepper and arrange in a fine wire broiler; broil over a quick fire until the edges curl. Serve on toasted crackers and spread with Maitre d'Hotel Butter.—Beat one-fourth of a cupful of butter to a cream, beat in one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and add very slowly one tablespoonful of lemon juice.

Velvet Cake.—Cream one-half cupful of butter, add gradually one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, the yolks of four eggs beaten thick, and one-half cupful of cold water. Mix and sift one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one-half cupful of cornstarch and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add to the first mixture, then add the stiffly beaten whites folded in lightly. Put into a pan and sprinkle with almonds and powdered sugar. Bake forty minutes in a moderate oven.

Raised Doughnuts.—Crumble one yeast cake into one cupful of scalded milk which has been cooled. When the yeast is well-blended add two eggs beaten light, one-third of a cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and about four cupfuls of flour; mix to a soft dough and knead ten minutes; cover and set aside over night out of drafts. In the morning roll into a sheet one-half inch thick and cut into rounds; let stand until doubled in bulk, fry in deep fat. Before serving, shake in a paper bag with a few tablespoonfuls of sugar, one doughnut at a time.

Sweet Potato Waffles.—Mix one cupful of mashed, cooked sweet potatoes, pressed through a ricer; add one cupful of sifted flour, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of melted butter or fat, and one cupful of milk. Add one well-beaten egg yolk and the stiffly-beaten white; fold in at the last. Cook on a greased waffle iron.

Metallic Brocade for Evening Wear

Winsome Fabric Reveals Sumptuousness When Worn at Night.

The metallic brocades are extremely smart this season, and they reveal their beauty and sumptuousness when worn at night. On the other hand, ob- serves a fashion writer in the Cleve- land Plain Dealer, if one buys a frock with the idea of making use of it throughout the spring, one of filmy tulle or chiffon will give excellent serv- ice. Satin is making its appearance as an evening fabric, white being es- pecially good.

And speaking of colors, don't be afraid to buy an evening frock in some vivid shade such as rose, flame, jade green, gold, Japanese tangerine, am- ber, turquoise blue or silver. These are the colors which are in vogue both in brocades as well as in plain ma- terials.

As regards necklines, the bateau seems to have almost entirely disap- peared. Even when the frock presents this line across the front, the back may be cut in a deep V. The round neck is used for dinner gowns, and the square neck is also returning to favor. For the more extreme décolletage a single shoulder strap is often used, the other shoulder being bare or having only a rhinestone ornament or floral band, the front of the frock forming a diagonal effect.

It seems strange that the vogue for the Spanish or Chinese shawl which is so pronounced in New York as well as in the fashion centers of the old world, should not make itself felt everywhere. It plays such a prominent part abroad in matters sartorial that returning buyers prophesy a revival of the Span- ish influence both in modes and de- signs for the coming spring. In the East entire frocks are fashioned of these lovely embroidered silken shawls, the one strap effect being used for the bodice with a diagonal draping line across the figure.

Gone is the huge squash-like col- fure with which a few seasons ago we used to hide our ears. The fluffy out- standing bob is also passe, its place being taken by a close boyish cut which may be waved or worn plain. Even the matron who still clings to her uncut locks combs them close about her head in as boyish a manner as possible. Simple little bandeaux may be worn, or the hair is left unadorned. Extremely long earrings are in vogue, while bracelets and beads may be uti- lized in carrying out the color scheme of one's costume.

Match your feather fan with a van- ity bag is one of the very newest fads. These clever bags come in the guise of larenoid ladies their silken gar- ments being trimmed with black silk net and black ostrich. Their net-edged sleeves serve as drawstrings while a loop of silk serves to attach them to one's fan. The colors are jade, or- chid, coral, blue and flame.

For street wear the dress-and-wrap costume is a distinct favorite with the designers, most frequently worked out with a cape, long or short, and often with straight rectangular scarfs that have slits for the hands.

Jade With Silver Lace,
Features of This Dress

For the dance, this charming Jade evening dress, trimmed charmingly with silver lace, should be the pride of any young woman.

Coral Lantern Shade.
For a swinging bedroom light, a graceful little lantern-like shade is made of two lengths of coral ribbon put together down the selvages and sutured in at the bottom with a tassel. The top open edges can be frilled. At the two seams and half way be- tween, at the top, narrow moire ribbon is tacked, the four lines coming to- gether in a knot when the shade is hung.

James Weed an Anesthetic.
In prehistoric times, Zulus and other tribes of North American Indians used a substance obtained from the James weed as an anesthetic during surgical operations.

A COAL MINING CAREER

Did you ever think of coal-mining your way to wealth and happiness? I did once. I was taken whizzing into a long West Virginia mine "head" on an electric car. I saw little stacks of dynamite loosen a whole wall of black diamonds, watched a great undercutting saw rip the wall loose at the bottom and send it tumbling down almost into the shovel of the miner. Somehow it was the power thus released with so little effort, not the fearfulness of being a mile under ground, that I carried away with me.

But our state laws have definite ideas against women as mine workers. So the only chance is to make good as an owner. And Lelia B. Gunn of Middlesboro, Ky., has done just that. Not because she wanted a spectacular career. Far from it. It is because her husband needed help to acquire full ownership of a good mine that Mrs. Gunn is now president of the Lower Lignite Mining company. He had married without capital or expectation of the inheritance that so often determines ownership of the great underground wealth. So the two of them buckled down to a long systematic struggle that lasted more than twelve years.

Meanwhile there were children. The three of them have all graduated at high school, each with the highest standing in the class, thus setting a record for the Gunn family.

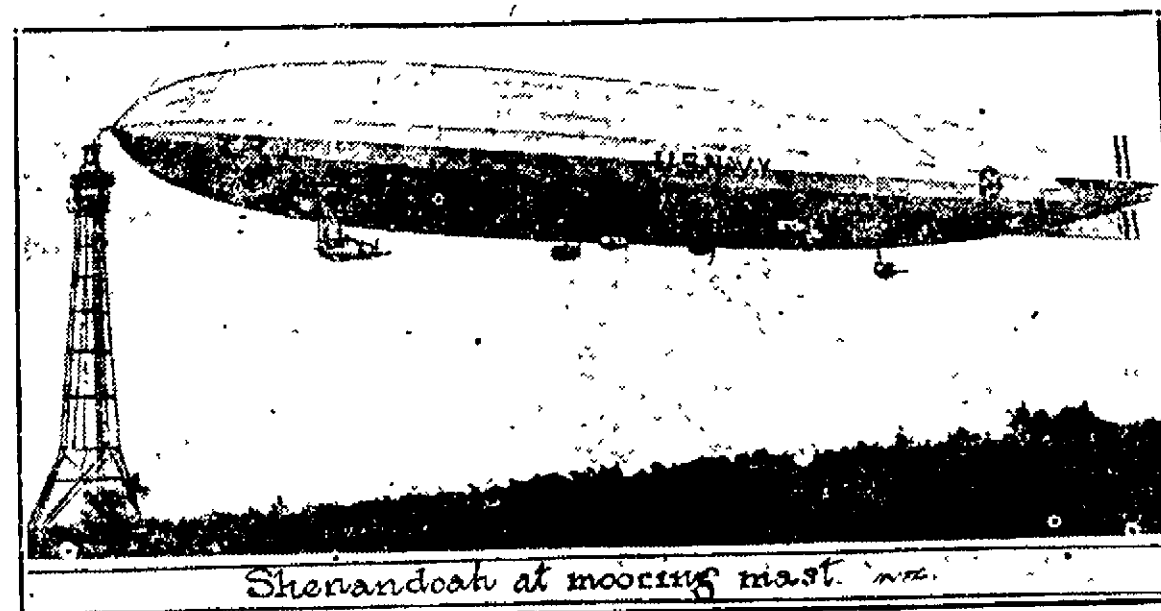

And there's the home itself. Mrs. Gunn planned the inside of the residence, and won a newspaper prize for its arrangement.

Then there's the world about them. Physically, it's wonderful. "We sit on our porch," reports Mrs. Gunn, "and look out on a million-dollar sunset every evening. We gaze at mountain scenery such as city people travel hundreds of miles to see. We have one of the purest water supplies that can be had anywhere."

But mentally and emotionally? Well, I asked Mrs. Gunn about that. "I've won a college education for my children," she answered first. Then she went on, "I do not come in contact with an unassimilated foreign population, and my children's friends are pure-bred Americans. I've many desirable friends. I have a good deal of influence over the Middlesboro schools. I'm a member of the Democratic state committee. And I've been asked to do a good deal of newspaper writing on home economics and politics. Besides, the human animal has been used to out-door life and to family life through hundreds of generations. City life is autogonistic to the entire history of the race."

CRIPPLED SHENANDOAH SAFE IN HER HANGAR.

Shenandoah at mooring mast. With the memory of the Dixmude disaster safe in their minds, the skeleton crew of the U. S. Navy's big airship, the Shenandoah, fought a hard battle for an hour when the big airship was torn from her 150-foot high mooring mast at Fort Belvoir, Ill., and buffeted about over New Jersey. Though she fought a hard battle, she is shown at the mooring mast from which she was torn away by the gale a few hours after this picture was made.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 18, 1924.

WHO IS MEANT BY "WE"?

"We are a funny sort of people," says the Houston Post, a leader of Texas Democracy. "We urge industry, diligence and thrift upon youth, we boost business and preach the right of citizens to enjoy the fruit of their enterprise, and, when they succeed, we denounce them as criminals and join in a movement to tax them out of their socks."

That is true, but there ought to be a definition of the word "We." The Houston Post speaks truthfully of the attitude taken by Democratic leaders. When some of the business men of whom the Post speaks went to Washington to defend themselves against threatened Democratic legislation in 1913, President Wilson denounced them as an "insidious lobby." The Wilson Administration urged farmers to raise more wheat, and they did it, but the deflation program was put through in such a way as to hit the wheat farmer first and hardest.

The Democrats in the Senate have united with a few radical Republicans to hammer the railroads. Just at a time when railroad men have been getting the transportation system of the country out of the dumps. To a small extent the Republicans must acknowledge a part in this, but the bulk of the votes were cast by Democrats. The Democrats are leading the present movement to tax successful business "out of its socks," as the Post describes it.

THE GRIP OF SUPERSTITION.

We need not wonder that among American negroes there are still venerated old women supposed to have the power of putting "bad mouth" by means of witchcraft on the enemy of the supplicant coming with the required coin in his hand. We need not wonder that Haiti is full of voodooism (serpent worship brought from Africa) and black magic in its worst form. We need not wonder at anything we read of semi-savage peoples anywhere, if among the Italian peasants, and even in Rome itself, superstition is as active as reported. Part of an article in the London Times, contributed by a British observer in Italy, who discusses the continued faith in a literal "material struggle with the powers of darkness"—reads as follows:

Every Roman believes that disease is less powerful in the region where rises the church of Santa Maria della Salute. And there is black magic as well as white. Many still see dark nights the great black dog and know the evil one runs the earth once more. Many would feel uncomfortable if they knew their enemy to be burning a little clay image in their likeness. Recently a peasant near Naples was found in possession of a ram's skull into which she had driven a number of nails, hoping thereby to bring death upon her enemy. She and her skull were solemnly arrested by the carabinieri and the nails extracted after a church ceremony in the presence of a bishop.

England is increasing her purchases of raw cotton in the United States and increasing her sales of cotton goods to the United States. Here we have a refutation of two of the assertions of Democratic leaders. They declared that the Republican tariff law would shut off our imports and thereby curtail our exports. They argued that the Republican rates were so high as to be prohibitive. But England is selling us more cotton manufactures than she did before—for the reason that under a Republican tariff our people are more prosperous and can buy more goods. In order to supply these goods, England is buying heavily of American raw cotton. During the last five months of 1923 her purchases were ten per cent greater than in the same period of 1922.

The Democratic press is praising President Coolidge for almost everything he has done, so it is difficult to imagine on what sort of an issue they can oppose his reelection. They praise his tax reduction program, which is the big issue before the country. They praise his expense reduction policies. They praise his effort to support sound government in Mexico. They praise his refusal to recognize the Bolshevik government in Russia. This covers the full list of subjects which have thus far called for action by President Coolidge. No Democrat of prominence, except McAdoo, is criticizing Coolidge, and McAdoo is prompted solely by the fact that he wants to be President himself.

France recently presented to the United States claims for damages alleged to have been caused by Americans while hunting for the remains of John Paul Jones. There was no offer to credit the amount on the claim of the United States for money loaned to France.

That Body of Yours

HOW MANY HOURS A DAY DO YOU WORK?

I heard a man say that he was working fourteen to sixteen hours a day, every day in the week.

I think he honestly believes that he works this long.

As a matter of fact he is "on the go" from morning till night, but he has so many "rests" so many "changes" throughout that time, that I think ten hours would be nearer his exact working hours.

I don't think it possible to tell any person exactly how long he should work each day.

There are two points to be considered—the man and the job itself.

There are some men that can stand almost any amount of hard muscular work, that would be worn out in a few weeks if in addition to the hard work, they had to assume some responsibility along with that work. Others could take the responsibility without much wearing on the system.

Some folks point to the old days when a man worked from six in the morning until six at night. The same workman now would work from eight until five.

In addition to this he gets a weekly half holiday on Wednesday or Saturday.

Is this lessening of the hours in the interest of the work and the man?

I think so.

In these days the machines travel faster, and there is more haste about the factory than when hand work was in vogue.

Everything and everybody is "on the jump" and so fatigue comes on sooner.

These efficiency fellows find that most of the accidents occur just before the noon hour, are not so frequent early in the afternoon, and then become more frequent as the working day nears its close.

Further, where a machine or job has to be watched to the exact detail and to the exact minute, the nervous tension brings on fatigue much sooner.

Where the machine "runs itself," requires no attention, unless due to accident, fatigue is much slower in its onset.

Now what was I trying to prove?

Well, you've only got the body that was given you, which you have either improved or impaired.

If you have a job that calls for exactness and attention to the very last detail, then you should not work more than your strength will stand.

Eight hours of this is harder than twelve hours of labor where the brain is not used. You need nourishing food and plenty of rest, with an extra holiday occasionally. And during your rest periods be sure that it is really "rest" you are getting.

Magnetic Machine Lays Nails Out for Packing

It is reported that a Swiss inventor has produced a machine that by magnetism arranges nails in parallel layers ready for packing. It works on the principle that all linear iron objects in a magnetic field arrange themselves automatically in the direction of the lines of force. The machine can also be used to arrange wire rods, hairpins, knife blades, pens and fishhooks. The packages to be filled by the machine may be the standard type of nail keg, wooden boxes or paper cartons. It is probable that the ten-pound cardboard package will supersede the old-fashioned nail keg, because it costs less, weighs less and is more convenient. The machine consists of two parts—parallelizing platform and a feed trough above it, which is fitted with a shaking mechanism. The articles to be packed are poured into the feed trough in lots of about 1,000 pounds, and, by the action of the shaking mechanism, are moved to the front of the trough, where they drop into the parallelizing platform. That consists of a tray, each side of which forms one pole of an electromagnet. The articles as they fall are drawn into the direction of the magnetic lines of force, which adjust them at once in parallel lines.

Barbados Man Travels 10,000 Miles for Wife

The course of true love, famed for its failure to run smooth, has established a record in the case of W. Percy Emtage, electrical engineer of the Barbados, says the New York World. It carried him 10,000 miles.

Three years ago Emtage first saw Sibyl Peterkin, also of the Barbados, and set out to get an introduction. He succeeded and followed it with a proposal. Miss Peterkin said she would love to be his sister and then packed up and departed for Boston.

Both wrote, Emtage's letters were pleading; Miss Peterkin's friendly and discouraging. Finally she quit writing altogether. Her last letter explained he was a "nice boy, but—"

This was six months ago and Emtage decided Boston might be interesting. He went there. Miss Peterkin had gone to Los Angeles. Emtage went to Los Angeles, but she had left for San Francisco. He followed, but she had returned to Boston.

Cheerfully he started back across the continent, only to find she had quit Boston for Brooklyn. He found her there in the home of her uncle, Edward Pyle.

Then Miss Peterkin gave up. They were married recently in the Municipal building, New York.

Relics of the Bruce

A find of an interesting character has been made on the field where the famous battle of Bannockburn was fought in 1314, and where, it is claimed, Scotland won its independence as a nation. Three sharp-pointed wooden stakes in an excellent state of preservation have been discovered three feet below the surface on a piece of land formerly known as the Milton Bog.

This bog is referred to in the chronicles of the battle, history recording that King Robert the Bruce of Scotland had pits made in the bog and pointed stakes placed in them to stay the progress of the English cavalry, and it is a matter of history or tradition that this device proved to be very successful. These stakes, which were found standing upright in the soil, are regarded as genuine, and are now being treasured as historical records in the ancient town of Stirling.

First Leviathan Was Failure

The first attempt to provide transatlantic travelers with a vessel that, in size and magnificence, would be a floating hotel, was made in the building of the Great Eastern. The launching of this huge ship, for some time called the Leviathan, was commenced November 2, 1857, but owing to the difficulty of moving the enormous weight, the vessel was not finally afloat until early in 1858.

The secret of managing so large a liner had not yet been learned, and the Great Eastern was from the first a white elephant to her owners. Her only real service was in the laying of Atlantic cables. She made her last voyage 35 years ago, and was then disposed of as junk. The pioneer Leviathan had a length of 692 feet and a tonnage of 27,000.—Detroit News.

Egyptian Stamps in Arabic Only.

A new issue of stamps is in circulation in Egypt, but these stamps only show their value in Arabic characters. This is a great inconvenience to many people. Three-quarters of the foreigners in Egypt do not know how to read Arabic and thousands of tourists who cannot decipher Arabic characters yearly visit Egypt. Perhaps it will be urged that Egypt, like other countries, should have its stamps printed only in the national language, but the cosmopolitan character of the Egyptian population seems to give good reason for departing, in this particular, from the practice of other nations.—Christian Science Monitor.

Hitching Horseless Buggies.

Because of being pestered by motor thefts a small town in California has set up a row of concrete hitching posts on its main street for the use of motorists. When the farmers drive in for the "Saturday shopping" now they drive the car up to the hitching rail, as in bygone days, and chain the wheels to the nearest post.

ODD RELIGIONS FOUND IN PERSIA

Shia Mohammedans Bury Dead Near Mosque

Recent riots of the Shia Mohammedans on the streets of Kirmanshah, Kufa and other Persian towns, because they believed their priests had been expelled from the sacred shrines in Mesopotamia, call attention to the fact that among this sect of the followers of the prophet some of the most peculiar religious customs exist, says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Instead of making the pilgrimage to Mecca, which is the lifelong ambition of every Sunni Mohammedan, the Shia pour from Persia, their great stronghold, through Bagdad to Kerbela and mystic Nedjef in Mesopotamia. Just beyond the walls of the last-named city perhaps more human bodies lie buried than in any other spot on the earth. The bodies of thousands of the faithful who have been so unfortunately as to die away from the sacred city are cured—salted—and dried—and brought by caravan for interment in the holy ground about the city.

Dreary Desert Trail.

"The way is long and difficult and sometimes it takes almost a year to make the round trip. The desert is weary, hot and monotonous, and the salt-crusted earth crackles under the feet of the camels as they walk along. It takes two days to make the 60 miles between Kerbela and Nedjef, and sometimes the odor of badly cured bodies renders the atmosphere nauseating. The dry desert air, however, is the only salvation of Nedjef against diseases which this practice would inevitably cause.

"A burial site within view of the great mosque of Nedjef is always at a premium, and thousands of tombs of varying sizes and shapes nestle within its shadow. When one of the faithful was asked by a traveler how many were sleeping in the earth about the city, he answered simply, 'Allah knows all their names.'

"All modern conveniences of Near Eastern life are provided for the pilgrims. The ubiquitous merchants of the world, the Jews mostly from Bagdad, have established a stage line, and in the city itself near the mosque there is a colony of women who board the pilgrims. Lines of the pilgrims so long that they set up their own 'ditch-works' for the 'ditch-diggers' and with a line to which they have been accustomed. A priest performs the ceremony according to an authorized process on and the accommodating ladies in question get new husbands each year with the annual religious holiday rush.

Origin of Title "Hadji".

"The girl he left behind him" may, indeed, suffer some qualms about recognizing her lord when he returns home, for he always dyes his beard red in the sacred city and is henceforth called by his friends by the title of Hadji—one who has made the Hadji, or pilgrimage.

"Persia is the home of many religions, beginning with the Zoroastrian, now represented by the Parsees, and several sects of Christians down to Mohammedanism in its many divisions. Shia Mohammedanism being the state religion of the country. The Shites have their own traditions, the most marked being an inordinate respect for Ali, nephew and son-in-law of the prophet and probably his first male convert. They believe that the angel Gabriel visited Mohammed on his last pilgrimage to Mecca and instructed him to proclaim Ali his successor.

Fabulous Stories of Caliph.

"So thoroughly are they convinced that the caliphate belongs to the house of Mohammed alone that to the confession 'There is no god but God and Mohammed is His ambassador,' they add and Ali is the vice regent of God. But Ali, while on earth, had some powerful enemies, chief among whom was Aisha, the favorite wife of Mohammed and the only one of his harem who had never been married before, and they succeeded in putting him aside and choosing three caliphs before him. He finally succeeded in obtaining the caliphate, but was murdered in the mosque of Kufa after he had served only four years.

"Fabulous are the stories which have grown up about his name. In fact, he is said to have out-Joshuaed Joshua in the following manner: One day while in Kufa he was so busy that he did not have time to say his prayers. Just as he finished his chores the sun disappeared behind the horizon, so he raised his hands toward the sky, made a sign and the sun retraced its steps to the position it should occupy at the moment of prayer and waited while the great man offered up his petition.

Fanatical Procession Held.

"Persian processions impress the stranger as fanatical. During their Month of Mourning—that in which the son of Ali was assassinated—they put on deep black, throw their shirts open at the chest, whether this lunar month is very hot or very cold, lacerate their bodies and go unshaven and with bare feet through the streets. Using their swords, they beat the tops of their heads until the blood streams over their faces and onto the garments. Large sums are paid by principal persons in the celebration for the blood-drenched robes.

"During that month the only theatrical performances of Persia take place. They are manifestations of Persian patriotism in which the Shites show their hatred for other Mohammedan sects, particularly for the Sunnites."

Velvet Is Favored in Winter Frocks

Material Holds Popularity for Semi-Formal and Formal Wear.

Velvet loses none of its charm for us as winter progresses, writes a fashion correspondent in the Kansas City Star. It is deservedly popular for evening wraps, where its warmth, beauty of color and sheen, and its softly draping propensities are most appreciated. Metal fabrics also still keep their grip on our affections, and frequently form either alone or in combination with velvet, the material of the evening cloak.

Fur and silver lame form another combination of great attractiveness, but the use of these two together requires the judgment of an experienced eye and the cunning of a practiced hand.

In all cases the lining should be as rich as the outer fabric and the wrap itself must be voluminous, so that it may cover one from head to foot in its cozy and becoming amplitude.

Mid-winter brings out the drier of the winter season and a glimpse of the season ahead. However much it seems to be hailing the natural seasons helter skelter by talking of new fashions before the height of the present season, the fact remains that the accessories of the winter costume very often herald colors of coming spring.

Many social affairs see the return of pink, just old-fashioned flesh pink and deeper shades, the shade that has for several seasons seemed to belong to the debutante. It is hers no longer. Callot, Drecoll and Paquin all have sponsored this shade in evening dresses of velvets and chiffons for the matron as well as maid. Often this delightful shade is combined with bands of dark fur and made over a metal cloth slip.

Chiffon velvet, a favorite for semi-formal as well as formal occasions, is developed in rosewood shade for an attractive frock. A cascade of velvet falls over one shoulder, harmonizing with the diagonal lines of the skirt, a new effect. Gold lace, introduced in labor effect, on an interesting gown, is held in place by the tiers.

Women are wearing back blue, cerulean blue, the blues that match eyes, the blues that flatter. Chanel is lining coats in the lovely shade. Fans and headpieces are brought out in this becoming color.

Whatever else the mode of winter has tried or passed over the fur bind has a place on gowns for eve-

FACTS ON FASHIONS IN TABLOID FORM

The woman who wants facts, shorn of all pretense of having them presented in an attractive guise, will be appreciative of the memos herewith, which are a resume of what smart establishments are concentrating on for immediate and future demands.

The frock sketched is a typical Garconne or boyish type, and is from Premet, the original model in Havana brown satin crepe with wooden buttons and a row of lace, a type of dress very much in the limelight at the moment, as are the facts beneath.

Plaid taffetas and brocaded Gros de Londres are a feature of dress collections.

Spanish influence is evident in embroidered shawl dresses prepared for the south.

High colors outnumber navy blues in tailored dress lines.

Pompadour taffeta and brocaded moires given picturesque expression by exclusive dressmakers.

The three-quarter tunic proves decided style innovation of both silk and cloth dresses.

Unusual preference for white and pastel evening gowns reflected at numerous smart occasions.

Parris continues to excel in unusual color combinations. Imports of exclusive character emphasize intricate drapings and scarf effects.

Great confidence expressed in cloth frocks for spring.

Tiered and flounced skirts continue prominent in spring collections.

Two-piece dresses for sports, street and afternoon wear are enthusiastically welcomed style.

Long and short sleeves, are equally prominent with short sleeves, extremely abbreviated and sleeveless frocks are also in evidence.

Bosom fronts variously treated prove repeated feature of tailored dresses.

Natural and dyed laces are extensively used for Palm Beach and lingerie frocks of unusual style appeal are also shown.

Hand blocked prints favor large figures and landscape motifs are frequently noted in these imported silks.

Waves of Ether.

Many persons have wondered about the so-called waves of ether, which, we are told, transmit sound by the wireless telephone. Mountains do not obstruct them, but how is it when the distance is such that a straight line between two stations would pass below the surface of the earth? An authority in such matters declares that the path of the ether waves is not a straight line, but follows the earth's curvature. Ordinary obstructions do not interfere with wireless waves.

Chiffon Velvet is a Favorite for Formal Occasions.

ning and daytime wear. Long tunic effects banded by fur are the height of fashion. The kind of fur depends on the dress, contrast is required, white fur on black, dark fur on light fabrics. But what kind of fur, thank heaven, we have ceased to ask. We know summer ermine is not summer ermine at all, and that nature never equaled the furrier's dye pot in producing variety in fox and squirrel furs. Just as well not care what kind of furs are used for trimming.

Embroidered Material Still Strong Favorite

So great was the vogue attained by embroidered materials in the season just past that one would have been justified in thinking that so far as fashion was concerned they were definitely done for. On the contrary they have never been more firmly established.

Often there is a mingling of many shades but the effect is never crude and many of the most distinctive costumes reveal a skilful use of metal tones. One of the most successful models of the year is a straight, slim coat of black velvet, collared with chinchilla and entirely covered from neck to hem with a most exquisite design done in silver and gun-metal thread. Self-toned embroidery is rather extensively employed and when this is done the pattern comes in for even more attention.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Jan. 17.—There will be preaching service in the Reformed Church on Sunday morning, January 20, at 10:30 o'clock, by the pastor, the Rev. T. S. Brattwaite. Sunday school at 9:30. C. E. meeting at 7:30 Sunday evening.

One of the greatest events of the season in this village was held last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ham, when a large number of their friends gathered there for a social time. During the evening fine music and dancing were enjoyed. Later an abundance of good things to eat were served. At a late hour the happy party returned to their homes.

The heavy rain of last Friday washed out a considerable part of the roads and sidewalks, which need repairing. Many cellars were also flooded with water.

Mrs. Kathryn Joseph was a week end guest at the home of her brother, William Flanagan, at Kingston. Mrs. Edward Dyer, who has been confined to the house with a cold, is able to be around again.

Herman Davis has been having a new roof put on his house.

J. M. Barnhart has broken ground for the foundation of a new bungalow.

Kenneth Church is building a new brooder house.

Mrs. R. Neish was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Alsdorf on Tuesday.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS.

A "Fancy Dress—For Masquerades, Parties, etc."

4574—This is a good design for a Boopie, or Kate Greenaway costume. It is also suitable for a "Dutch" or "Period" dress. One could use crepe paper, or saten, or make the dress of printed voile, silk or dimity. The fichu may be omitted.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 5 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. To make fichu and sash of contrasting material requires 1 1/2 yard 36 inch wide.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter catalogue, containing 550 designs of Ladies and Misses' and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Set yourself straight on these Bran facts!

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give you must be certain to get Kellogg's Bran, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's Bran will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's Bran is a necessity!

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL BRAN—is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's Bran is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran in the Red and Green package.

Sponge Rocks.

The sponge rocks in Montana have attracted the attention of tourists and scientists by reason of the remarkable tracery and porosity of their formation. They appear like vast pieces of pumice stone intricately carved by nature into innumerable cells, webs, and cavelets. Some of the pieces are almost threadlike. The rocks are stated by geologists to be carboniferous sandstone. The sponge-like formation is of course due to both water and wind erosion, the softer particles of the rock having been washed down or blown away, leaving the harder portions standing.

Civil War Artillery
Man Meets His Target

In wars soldiers aim to get the enemy. But when a war is over a soldier is glad his shot missed the target as he comes face to face with an enemy he missed.

C. Stuart Patterson, the veteran lawyer and bank president, told friends a few days ago of a personal experience of that kind.

Mr. Patterson was a member of that Philadelphia battery which embraced so many men who afterward became distinguished, including besides himself John G. Johnson and "Hans Breitmann," celebrated humorist, says Gillard in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

In the Gettysburg campaign, Mr.
Patterson's battery was sent to Carlisle. The guns were posted in the center of the town where now runs the railroad.

Gen. "Baldy" Smith, in civilian dress, was on the job and strolled out to reconnoiter the position of the Confederate advance.

Returning to the town he walked up to the Philadelphia artillerymen and said: "There is the enemy, half a mile in that direction. You may begin firing."

It was in that engagement Mr. Patterson was wounded.

Years afterward he met Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, who said:

"Had you aimed your shots a few feet to the left of where they first fell you would have killed Gen. 'Jeb' Stuart and myself. We had a close call."

"That is one time," replied Mr. Patterson, "I am glad I completely missed
the mark."

Air in Rooms Usually
Is Too Dry for Health

Most authorities agree that the factors that distinguish good from bad air are proper temperature, proper humidity and adequate movement. The temperature of rooms for health is about 72 degrees Fahrenheit. Most Americans like the temperature much higher and complain of feeling chilly when it is at this level.

Why? The principal reason is that the air is too dry. Dry air means that excessive evaporation of moisture takes place from the skin, mouth and nose, and this evaporation takes heat away from the body. The worst combinations between temperature and humidity are cold damp air, warm moist air and excessively dry air artificially warmed.

The comfort zone lies between 68
and 70 degrees Fahrenheit, with a humidity between 30 and 55 per cent.
The average indoor room in winter has a humidity between 15 and 22 per cent, and to offset the great loss of body heat which this causes the temperature is kept far too high.—Hygein

One of Jock's Tricks

Late one night Jock, returning home from work, found a young owl which had fallen from its nest. He picked up the injured bird, carried it home,
fed it, and at last placed it in a cozy
corner of the kitchen fireplace.

In the early morning Jock's mother came down into the kitchen to get breakfast ready for the family, and was startled by the strange object. But she soon recovered from her alarm, for she was accustomed to the many tricks of young Jock.

"That's our Jock at his pranks again," she smiled. "He's gone and put a beak on the kitten."

Wanted the Rest of It

The householder, answering a knock at the door, discovered a poor Jew who the previous day had begged a waistcoat from him.

"Does the kind gentlemen remember," said the Jew, "that he gave me a waistcoat yesterday? Well, I found a five-pound note in der pocket."

"Upon my word," said the householder, "you are an honest man. Come inside, sir."

While the Jew was enjoying the glass of wine and cigar immediately found for him, the householder said:
"Of course, you have brought the waistcoat back?"

"No," replied the Jew. "I haf come to beg for der coat and trousers."

Old Helicopter Model

A model of a helicopter from plan-drawn 80 years ago by Sir George Cayley was constructed recently by Paul Gerber, custodian of airplane models in the National museum at Washington. The design, although conceived years before an airplane flew, is strikingly similar to those of recent helicopters, and aeronautical engineers assert that with a few modifications based on modern aircraft principles a large machine constructed on the original plans undoubtedly would fly.—Popular Science Monthly

Needing Heat!

A business man entertained a houseparty the other week. As he came from his dressing room one night during the party he overheard his butler saying in a fierce whisper down the dumbwaiter:

"For de land's sake, cook, hurry up de soup. De ladies is all stripped for dinner."—Boston Globe.

Out of the Question.

The three children came and stood in a row in front of their mother.
"Mamma," they asked, "what would you like for your birthday?"

"My dears, mamma wants nothing for her birthday but three good children. She would like that."

"But then, mamma," cried the eldest,
"we'd be six."

One of the Inducements.

Phillipa—"I don't want to go to a girl's school. I'm going to a co-educ-tional college." Lucy—"But the men there are likely to be bold and flirtations." Phillipa—"That's what the girls all tell me."

Courtesies.

In all the affairs of human life, social as well as political, courtesies of a small and trivial character are the ones that strike deepest to the grateful and appreciative heart.

Teach Kindness.

It has been truly said: "Any person who deliberately tortures a dumb animal would commit any crime not requiring courage." Teach children kindness to animals.

A Thoroughbred.

Ecks—"Call that snub-nosed cur an Irish police dog? He looks like a mutt to me." Wye—"He might do that. But, nevertheless, he's a plain-clothes bull."

A Difficult Task.

It was bedtime for four-year-old Jack, but the little fellow wanted to stay up later. His aunt, who tipped
the scales at nearly 200 pounds, said:
"Why, Jack, think of me—I am ever so much older than you and I go to bed with the chickens!"

Jack looked at her size, and said:
"Well, I don't see how you ever got up on the roost!"

Must Have Been Jealous.

Mr. Jack—"Isn't that skirt-dancer a peach?" Mrs. Jack—"I should say she was more like brown sugar; very sweet, but coarse; a little off color,
and decidedly unrefined."—Boston

Home-Seekers' Had Big Year

$252,000 Lended During 1923, Mostly on New Dwellings—Shares of 46th Series Are Now to Be Had.

The annual report of the Home-Seekers' Co-Operative Savings & Loan Association has just been issued. Their resources are now $938,859.31, an increase of $170,555.46 for the year; outstanding shares 16,545½, an increase of 2,312½. During the year over 100 mortgage loans were made, amounting to $252,000, a large percentage of them being on new dwellings.

The "Home-Seekers" have been in operation for 35 years, and have a Reserve Fund of $17,006.50 to meet losses, if any. All associations of this kind are under the supervision of the State Banking Department, whose examiners make a thorough investigation of their affairs annually.

These associations are operated primarily to furnish loans to their members for the purchase or erection of homes, but by far the larger part of their members are not borrowers. They belong to the association for the purpose of accumulating their savings, the enforced regularity of deposits and large interest returns, or dividends, giving them peculiar advantages in this respect.

Membership is open to any one who wishes to save, and the plan is just as well adapted to their requirements whether they wish to accumulate $1 a month or $100. The prospective member is required to subscribe for a definite number of shares and pay an entrance fee of 25c on each one. Thereafter he must deposit $1 on each share every month. Dividends are added to his account annually, and in turn earn more dividends. The dividend rate of the "Home-Seekers" has been six per cent for the last nine years. When the account amounts to $200 per share, the shares have "matured" and the shareholder receives his money. Shares usually mature in about 140 months.

There is no limit to the number of shares a person may hold, and they may be taken on joint account or in trust for children by parents or others. Shares are issued in series, a new one being opened every February and August, but persons may join any time by paying back to the opening of the last series.

If a shareholder is unable to continue his deposits or requires his money, he may withdraw his account at any time, the Association following the practice of paying withdrawals on demand without requiring notice. In such cases the Association retains one-fifth of the accrued dividends.

Subscriptions for shares in the 46th series, which opens next month, are being received now at the Association's office, 3 East Strand, over Connelly's Drug Store, and every one wishing to take shares is invited to call there.

SEACER.

Seacer, Jan. 17.—George Armstrong and son George made a business trip to Kingston on Friday of last week.

Mrs. Harrison Todd closed a very successful term of school in this district last week. No one as yet has been engaged for the coming term.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Todd visited at William Akert's at Mapledale on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Stewart, of Erie, Pa., visited friends at Schandaken on Sunday.

George Armstrong, Jr., is driving a Buick these days.

Mrs. O. A. Todd will serve a dinner on Saturday for the benefit of the church fair. A cordial invitation is extended.

Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Kittle and little daughter of Mapledale were pleasant callers at Orson Avery's Sunday evening.

People of Tasmania.

They are 70.2 per cent native Tasmanians, 11.5 natives of the United Kingdom and 7.3 natives of other Australasian colonies. There are 600 or 700 colored aliens and about 250 half-caste aboriginals.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, Jan. 17.—Mrs. Luella Wolven of Pine Grove spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Wilson Ackerman, last week.

Mrs. Winfield R. Snyder and Mary J. Carle spent Thursday with Mrs. Fred Shader.

George R. Felten of West Camp and Arthur Lamb of Saugerties called on Mrs. Amanda Felten Sunday.

A theological student from New Brunswick will occupy the pulpit next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. John B. Steketee, classical pastor, was here last Sunday and gave a good sermon on working together with God. His text was I Cor. 3:9. He called on several families here last week. Mrs. Anna C. Snyder and daughter, Dora, entertained him for dinner.

Mrs. Ray Benton of Saugerties was at her sister's, Mrs. Rex Valer, last week for a few days.

Henry A. Wilgus is putting up a bungalow south of his garage.

Twenty-four members of the Willing Workers were present at the monthly meeting last week. Mrs. Luella Wolven was a guest.

Only a few attended the meeting held in Mt. Marion January 9 to see about cleaning up the cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Felten had as Sunday guests her cousin, Ernest Timmerman and his wife of Kiskatom.

Mr. and Mrs. Garton Miller of Saugerties were at her mother's, Mrs. Ellen Kiersted, Sunday.

Mrs. Adelia Weatherway of Cementon is spending a few days with her stepdaughter, Mrs. Sauley Felten.

Carle & York have purchased a team of horses of Edward Rourke.

Savings and Loan Operations

Described to Kiwanis Club by A. C. Connolly — Kingston Cooperative Has Loaned $885,000 in Three Years—Demand Increases.

Arthur C. Connolly, secretary of and attorney for the Kingston Cooperative Savings and Loan Association, was the speaker to the Kiwanis Club Thursday at The Advance Restaurant. He spoke on thrift in general and the relation to thrift of the savings and loan associations, Thursday being the first day of the nationally observed "Thrift Week," and the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin.

Mr. Connolly's address was largely devoted to statistics and statements of fact, none the less interesting because such, as they showed the savings and loan associations to be interwoven with the life of the nation, state and city. In the nation there are 4,000,000 members and a capitalization of over $2,000,000,000; New York state associations in 1921 had 321,000 members, taking out 3,850,000 shares.

Low cost of administration is claimed as the advantage of the associations, the expenses of conducting the business averaging only $7.95 per $1,000 invested.

The Kingston Co-operative in the last three years has supplied $90,000 for the construction of new homes and $175,000 on buildings already erected. It does not compete directly with the savings banks because it loans money to many who cannot meet savings banks requirements, loaning up to 75 and 80 per cent upon buildings, completed or in course of construction. The associations really pay dividends, whereas the savings banks pay interest. The savings banks send applicants who are unable to meet their requirements to the associations and also loan money to the building and loan associations. Sixty per cent of the applicants to savings banks for loans have not enough money to put into a house themselves to secure a bank loan.

The associations have little money to use for advertising purposes, but the basis of their operation is the taking out of shares. These shares are not tangible in themselves and merely show how much money is being invested. If one wishes to take out ten shares, he pays ten dollars monthly into the association. These shares mature when the amount paid in plus the dividends earned have reached $200 for each share, and the money must then be withdrawn. For instance, one share calls for one dollar payment each month. Paid for 144 months it will have earned $56, which makes it a matured share.

Oneonta is one of the best savings and loan cities in the country, ninety-five per cent of the home owners there being members of the building and loan. In 32 years here no association member has lost a dollar and they have been but four foreclosures of mortgages.

His association, said Mr. Connolly, could do a great deal more here to help meet the demand for new homes and the making of better citizens if more people would invest with it, as the demand promises to be heavier this year than ever before.

Mr. Connolly distributed copies of the new United States government pamphlet for home builders which he said was one of the best real aids to anyone intending to build or buy a home he had ever seen.

Sam Messenger donated the attendance prize, a unique one, about five pounds of top sirloin roast, which Charles Lasher of the gas company, will probably have for dinner today, since he won it.

Plans are under way for the creation of a $25 prize for high school students for the best essay on Kingston's civic betterment.

President Van Valkenburgh and the committees of the new administration promised some innovations and also some discipline during the coming year.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the best healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote kills the germ.

is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist for Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Schoolmasters' Ass'n Meeting

Judge Fowler Delivers Address on the Importance of the Work With Children and the Juvenile Court—Business and Other Matters at Banquet.

Friday night the Schoolmasters Association held a meeting and banquet at The Advance Restaurant. The meeting was largely attended by teachers of the high school and principals of public schools. After much choice food had been disposed of by the schoolmasters, Prof. Van Ingen opened the business meeting and after transacting sundry matters turned the meeting over to Mr. Brown, chairman of the committee. Mr. Brown said that he had heard the wish of many of the members to hear Judge Fowler speak on the work of the juvenile court and decided to invite him to this meeting.

Judge Fowler said that the work and subject of juvenile courts would be particularly interesting to teachers as well as to others who are interested in children. The fact that those who were present were teaching shows that they have a real interest in the children of the community for they are certainly not teaching for any financial gain.

The saving of children is very important, even more important than the saving of money. New York state was rather slow in adopting measures providing for juvenile courts, western states being a few years in advance.

About two years ago the state passed laws providing for juvenile courts. Formerly children who committed misdemeanors were brought to the local justices or recorders, there being no uniformity of practice. These justices might or might not act wisely in sentencing children, most of them are not lawyers and do not know much of law or the various places to send children. These justices might be prejudiced by local conditions and then injure a child's chance to come clear. The question whether or not it should be left to the justices or to a special juvenile court could be well debated.

The act which was passed in this state called on every county to have a juvenile judge appointed. If the county judge had time for the work he should take it over. It happened so in this county and Judge Fowler was made judge of the juvenile court. The juvenile court is entirely separate and is not handled in any way like another court. There is no court room and the procedure is different.

In other days the juvenile criminal was brought in the courtroom, the same as an adult under arrest and with a warrant served on him. The only difference was that what would have been a felony for an adult was a misdemeanor for a juvenile. At the present time no warrant is served unless the case is very serious. The general practice has been to issue a summons or to send a letter to the juvenile and the parent directing them to appear. When the boy and the parent appear, the boy is given a chance to tell his story. The true facts are attempted to be arrived at without complicated hearings. There are no public hearings in the juvenile courts. Publicity and reporters are not wanted. If there are any children's court cases published, they come from some other source than the juvenile court office. Publicity is not liked because it places upon the children the stigma which follows arrest. If the boy is found guilty, sentence is passed. The policy is not to imprison on first offence, unless the case is of a very serious nature. Probation is used in the juvenile court much more extensively than in the adult court.

This probation policy is practiced by nearly all juvenile judges, and is a very good system where the probation officer is a good one. Judge Fowler complimented R. J. Service, who has been doing excellent work as probation officer.

If the boy comes back a second time it is necessary to take further steps. Some institution in the state, not a prison, is found to which the boy is sent. The place where the boy is sent is usually a state school of industry, where he is able to learn a trade while bettering his moral side. The schools are semi-penal schools and not prisons.

The second side to the juvenile court is the mental defectiveness side. There are many people who commit crimes because their minds are slightly unbalanced. Formerly there were but two conditions, a man was sane or insane. But now a mental defectiveness commission has been started and those who commit crimes because of any mental disorder are sent to schools for defectives and not sent to prison.

Many cases which come to the juvenile court are cases of improper guardianship or of surroundings. If the conditions of a home are endangering the welfare of a child, the child is placed in institutions such as a city home where the environment tends to strengthen his morals.

There are also many truancy cases which come to the juvenile court, but these cases may be handled by a justice or recorder if the distance from the county seat is great. When children are convicted and sentence is to be imposed, it is a very perplexing problem what to do to them. It may be a serious offense and merit the child being sent away.

What to do with the children is therefore a most serious question and the help and suggestions of the teachers would be appreciated if any of their school boys should get into the juvenile court. It is not a question of law, but a question of what is best for the boy and the community.

There is no more important work than the work with children and the shaping of lives for the future. After this very interesting address by Judge Fowler, questions were asked and discussed. Prof. Cullen brought up a good discussion about law enforcement in this city. The meeting adjourned with all looking forward to the next meeting which will be held on February 14 and will be ladies' night.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Multisilf cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three applications will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Multisilf cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months.

Philadelphia, Jan. 18.—General Smedley D. Butler's second 48 hour offensive against vice and crime in this city was in full swing this afternoon. Police all over the city were scouring their districts, in accord with the general's order to make the two day crusade a "weekly habit."

Speakeasies, saloons, gambling houses and resorts of vice were the objectives of the assault he started at noon.

Before the zero hour the six police inspectors made a tour of every sta-

YALE MEN VOTE FOR LIGHT WINE AND BEER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New Haven, Conn., Jan. 18.—Yale
Daily News, which has been conducting a campaign among students to decide how they stand on prohibition, announced today that "results of the ballot were virtually a victory for those favoring beers and light wines."

Forty seven per cent of the 2,092 votes cast by students favored modification of the Volstead Act, 28 per cent wanted rigid enforcement and the rest asked for the entire repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The votes were: 982 for modification, 585 for rigid enforcement and 526
for repeal.

HOUSE RULES FIGHT
ENDS IN COMPROMISE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 18.—The bitter fight over house rules ended today with a compromise forced by a coalition of insurgents and Democrats over the regular Republicans.

With the signature of 150 of the 435 members any bill can be voted up or down in the house and any committee in charge of a bill can be forced to act on it in 37 days or have it taken away and brought to the floor for debate and vote.

STORES ON WHEELS GAINING

Old Tin Peddler Coming Back. But Now He Drives a Big Motor Truck.

The old tin peddler promises to come back again to the rural districts, but in a new form.

He will roll up in a big motor truck.
Tin peddlers were a curious lot.
Nearly every one drove an ancient white horse. The wagon had upon it very high sides and the interior, when opened to the gaze of a country lad,
was like a peep into Aladdin's cave.

Bright pieces of tinware were upon shelves or suspended from hooks. The tin peddler took his little store to the country customer. Often he exchanged his wares for rags or old clothing, says
Girard in the Philadelphia Inquirer.
But the swift auto has brought something new. I saw one not long ago, a complete store on wheels. It was stocked with nearly everything a housekeeper ordinarily buys, except fresh meats.

Several years ago two girls tried the experiment of putting a bookshop on wheels. They traveled about and did a first-rate business.

That suggested the other and newer kind of store, which does not wait for the customer to come to it, but goes to the door of the buyer.

In this wheeled shop are groceries
of all kinds, canned goods, cereals, dried food, including meat; considerable quantities of clothing, umbrellas, hats, shoes, cooking utensils, toys and candy for youngsters, fish-hooks, baseballs, matches, dishes, and also a few books and current magazines.

A truck nearly the size of our large moving vans holds an enormous amount. They go fast, and articles are kept clean and dry.

Opened front and back, the lady from Lonesome Crossroads may go into one end of this moving store, nicely lighted with electricity, and come out the other end, having done a fort-night's shopping by traveling a few rods from her own door.

Some day we may see even banks on wheels rushing about the country gathering up money.

HIS HANDKERCHIEF IS OVAL

Hindoo Prince Tampering Where More Famous Have Fixed the Laws of Style.

A Hindu prince has started the fashion of oval pocket handkerchiefs. But why should he want his handkerchief oval?

Another ruler, far more famous, invented the square handkerchief. When Louis XVI ascended the throne of France handkerchiefs were oblong. Before that they had been round, with a deep bordering of lace. It was only the high-born and the rich who owned handkerchiefs at all in those days, says London Tit-Bits.

When Louis XVI had reigned for about 12 years he considered that the time had come for another change of shape, and doubtless Marie Antoinette had something to do with the idea. It was decided that the reign of the square handkerchief should begin.

By letters patent, given at Versailles on September 23, 1784, it was decreed that the length and the breadth of the handkerchief should be equal. Three months later the French parliament
gravely confirmed the absurd decision.

Red Man Prefers Red Color.

The red man's fondness for gaudy color schemes has long been known,
but it has remained for Dr. T. R.
Garth of the University of Denver to scientifically ascertain the color preferences of the Indians in the Southwest. Full-blood Indians were found to prefer red to all other colors, then blue, violet, yellow and white in the listed order. White men, living in the same social and educational environment, preferred blue, then green,
and then red.

The education of the red man has little apparent influence upon his favorite colors. The squaws and the braves agreed more closely in their selection of colors than the whites and the Indians did. The full-blood Indians were found to be very emphatic in their color preferences, much more so than the mixed bloods and the whites.

Ate His Model.

It was the "object" drawing lesson,
when the boys are supposed to bring some article—a hammer, a top, a box or what not—with them to school to serve as model.

One boy presented himself at the master's desk with the tearful announcement, "Please, sir, I've swallowed my object."

"Swallowed it?" cried the master, in alarm. "Whatever was it?"
"Please, sir," with a gulp, "a banana."

She Is Uneasy.

Heavy pounding was heard in the next flat and Mrs. Wamps evidenced marked signs of uneasiness.

"What do you suppose they are doing next door?" she finally asked of her husband.

"Sounds like hanging a few pictures,
my dear. Does the noise disturb you?"

"No, but good gracious, Henry. I just loaned that woman my silver-backed hairbrush."

Radio Best Cure for Tuberculosis

Chief Doctor in One U. S. Vets Hospital Gives Radio Apparatus One of Its Best Advertisements.

Some time ago a radio outfit was installed in the tuberculosis hospital here and since that time the patients have received, perhaps, more pleasure from the outfit than any other single thing which could have been provided. Through local people who were interested in these unfortunate people who were confined to the camp, the radio outfit was made possible.

Radio is a valuable adjunct to the treatment for tuberculosis and is "of great therapeutic value in treatment of other hospital cases," Dr. Walter K. Foley, chief of the medical service of the United States Veterans' Bureau Hospital No. 68, declares.

He revealed that more than 250 radio sets are being used in the hospital and that when a patient enters he is given the option of receiving a set as a part of his hospital equipment.

"A radio set will do more to cure tuberculosis than any other apparatus yet devised," said Dr. Foley. "The boys forget their troubles with radio. A worried, unsettled state of mind is the biggest obstacle we have to fight in the treatment of tuberculosis."

Corruption Is Denied by Fall

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 18.—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the Interior, passed the lie today to Senator H. Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas, who openly charged, on the senate floor Wednesday that there had been corruption in Fall's leasing of Teapot Dome oil reserve to Sinclair interests.

From New Orleans, where he is said to be ill, the ex-secretary telegraphed the following denial of Caraway's charge to International News Service:

"Senator Caraway's charges of corruption in connection with the leases are absolutely false. Whenever Caraway opens his mouth in the senate he has first taken an oath which gives him constitutional immunity."

"Not one word of testimony taken by the senate investigating committee will sustain or afford any foundation for the charge that I ever received one cent as consideration for any lease or for any other official action."

PARTS OF THOUSAND-YEAR-OLD CANOES FOUND IN LAKE

Fragments Unearthed in New Jersey by Workmen Under Floating Island of Peat Moss.

Parts of three canoes of the aborigines were found recently under a floating island of peat moss in Glen Wild lake, near the borough of Bloomington, N. J. Foster H. Sayville, a professor of the Heye Foundation, Museum of the American Indian, at Broadway and One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street, who is studying the articles, said the craft were from 700 to 1,000 years old. He regards the find as one of the most important scientifically in many years.

Workmen have been employed recently developing the lake for bungalow sites. They discovered the odd bits of wood. A large part of the bottom of a canoe was taken ashore first. It measures four feet across, with portions of the sides still intact. Under the direction of scientists from the Heye Foundation the lake will be dredged in the hope of finding a canoe in its entirety.

Professor Sayville says the cedar trees of the kind which were hollowed out to make the canoes were extinct in the section before the white men appeared in New Jersey. He said from indications the canoes were large enough to carry 25 men each and that they were probably used as war vessels.

Stone axes, knives of flint and other relics of the times of the Indians have been found along the lake shore recently. A systematic search of the entire country will be made soon by scientists.

Beneath the floating islands of peat moss the water is from 60 to 400 feet deep. The lake in the early days had two outlets, one into the Pequannock river and one into the Wanaque. Fifty years ago it was known as Iron Pond.

Scales Prove Sleeping Person Loses Weight

These peculiar scales are being demonstrated as a part of the annual exhibition of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. This scale is so finely balanced that it accurately records the amount of perspiration a human being evaporates every few minutes. It will now be possible for scientists to determine just how much weight a person loses or gains under almost any given condition.

Pennsylvania Students Fight Fire in Bare Feet

After fleeing from the dormitories in scanty attire, 80 boarding students at St. Luke's Preparatory school at Wayne, Pa., at 6:40 o'clock in the morning formed bucket brigades and extinguished a fire which for a time threatened to destroy the main building of the school.

Under the direction of Charles H. Strout, head master, five of the students made their way to the roof of the burning structure and fought the flames at close range with the school fire hose. The students worked so efficiently that by the time the Radnor fire department arrived the blaze had been extinguished.

Jack Ungerman, one of the school's athletes, led a squad, all in bare feet, to the roof to attack the flames. Among those with him were Frederick Lewis and William Johnson, roommates, of New York; Walter Gathier of Harrisburg and "Jack" Lippincott of New Jersey.

Lewis and Johnson were blinded by smoke but escaped injury. The fire was attributed to sparks from a chimney.

BADGE WORN BY TOREADOR

Spanish Bull Fighter Proud of His Pigtail or Coleta—Objects to Impostors Wearing It.

It is a saying in Spain that to be a great matador one should have Triana blood. Several families of the town have supplied three and sometimes four generations of bull fighters.

The conservative toreador wears a small pigtail or coleta. He allows his coleta to grow as soon as he has passed his novitiate and has been accepted by the authorities as a real torero.

The bull fighter is immensely proud of this traditional badge of his calling and has little mercy on those who wear it without the right to do so.—Detroit News.

JACK HORNER WAS ROGUE

Mother Goose Character Really Existed in the Reign of Henry VIII.

Jack Horner of the Christmas tale really existed, though whether he deserved the title of "good boy" is exceedingly doubtful. He was, however, a fortunate rogue.

When Henry VIII suppressed the monasteries and drove the monks from their quarters the title deeds of the abbey of Mells were demanded by the commissioners. The abbot of Glastonbury determined that he would send them to London and, as the documents were very valuable, and the road infested with thieves, it was difficult to get them to the metropolis safely.

To accomplish this end he devised a very ingenious plan. He ordered a savory pie to be made, and inside he put the documents—the finest filling a pie ever had—and intrusted this dainty to a lad named Horner to carry up to London to deliver safely into the hands for whom it was intended.

But the journey was long and the day cold, and the boy was hungry, and the pie was tempting, and the chance of detection was small.

So the boy broke off a piece of the pie, and beheld a parchment within. He pulled it forth innocently enough, wondering how it could have found its way there, tied up in pastry, put it in his pocket and then continued his journey to town.

The parcel was delivered, but the title deeds of Mells abbey were missing.

The fact was that Jack had them in his pocket. These were the juiciest plums in the pie. Great was the rage of the commissioners and heavy the vengeance they dealt out to the monks.

But Master Jack Horner kept his secret, and when peaceable times were restored he claimed the estates and received them.—Baltimore Sun.

Wool for Billiard Table

Twenty-Two of the Finest Fleeces Are Used in Making Single Cover, That Will Stand Up.

Most striking of the revelations of the manufacture of billiard tables are the facts about the cloth for which the pick of the world's wool is used to produce a fabric that will stand up to its work. No fewer than 22 fleeces are rejected during the processes of cleaning and combing before the weaving begins.

To keep a cloth in the best condition two things are essential—careful brushing and ironing. The strokes of the brush must invariably be in the same direction—that is, with the nap—and the same rule holds good for the iron, which should never be too hot, or else the cells of the wool will be deprived of the natural moisture which they need to keep in good condition.

The points of the best cues are usually made of French ash or maple, which have been found by experience to keep straighter than other woods. For the embellishment of the butt ebony is the favorite, but tulip wood—a wood from Brazil of a red color with yellowish streaks—and rosewood are both employed sometimes.—Detroit News.

TO MARK BIRTHPLACE OF FIRST WHITE CHILD IN U. S.

North Carolina Will Honor Virginia Dare by Erecting Monument on Roanoke Island.

A movement has been started by a group of citizens of North Carolina to permanently mark historical spots, and one of the places to be designated by a monument, if the plans materialize, is the birthplace of Virginia Dare, the first white child born on American soil. The spot is on Roanoke Island, often referred to as "the cradle of the English race in America." There is some doubt as to the exact spot where Virginia Dare was born, but it is believed to be near Fort Raleigh, about three miles north of Manteo.

Mounds of earth forming the sides of a pentagon, at each angle of which is a stone post protruding about a foot from the ground, show the location of the old fort. In the center of the fort there is now an unpretentious stone marker on which is inscribed some of the historical records of the place. Unscrupulous relic collectors have marred the present stone marker, but its inscription still can be read.

The county of which Roanoke Island is a part is named Dare, in honor of the first English child born in America, and the seat of the county is named Manteo in honor of the Indian chief who was the first person to be baptized in the new land. Manteo enjoys the distinction of being the only county seat in the United States, with the single exception of Key West, Fla., located on an island.

Today the island is sparsely settled. The inhabitants make a livelihood by fishing. They do little farming. In fact, it is said that there is only one commercial farmer on the whole island, which is 12 miles long and about three miles wide.

The North Carolina state department of education and the state historical commission, in order to present to the people the history of Roanoke Island in pictorial form, in 1921 had the settlement of the island enacted and photographed in 6,000 feet of motion picture film.

August 18, 1902, the first celebration in honor of the birth of Virginia Dare was held at Fort Raleigh. Since then the celebrations have been repeated from time to time. It is said that at these occasions only has the flag of Queen Elizabeth—a red cross on a field of white—been displayed.

Named as One of Best Chemists in World

Photograph of Prof. Wilder D. Bancroft, head of the physical chemistry department of Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., who was chosen by the Chemical Society of France as one of the twelve leading chemists of the world. Professor Bancroft—with the inventor, Mr. Warren—made the discovery last spring that electrified sand, showered from an airplane, would dispel fog and clouds. The discovery has been tested by the government station in Ohio and is to be adopted by the United States air service.

Titled Woman Operates X-Ray in London Hospital

Lady Constance Butler, daughter of the late marquis of Ormonde, is now in charge of the X-ray department of St. Andrew's hospital, Dollis Hill, London. Before the war she used to read learned treatises on the X-ray instead of the latest novel or a volume of verse, but not until the war did she get actual experience in handling Roentgen rays. Then she worked in three hospitals with the apparatus.

As her machine at St. Andrew's is rather worn out she is devoting her spare energies in organizing a ball to raise funds for a new one.

Keepers Driven From Armenian Light.

Keepers of the Armenian lighthouse, whose beams lighted the dangerous Seine channel, familiar to hundreds of thousands of the A. E. F. who landed at Brest, were driven by flames from their station during the night recently. The fire forced them to descend to the lowest part of the lighthouse where they clung to rocks for hours while mighty waves pounded over them. Eventually the flames burned themselves out, but the Armenian light is not burning.

Fish Not Brain Food.
It used to be believed that certain foods, especially fish and other foods containing phosphorus, were especially valuable for the gray matter of the brain. This is not believed any more. Brain cells apparently use the same kinds of food materials as all other living cells do. The best way to feed the brain well is to keep the body in good health.

STATE OF NEW YORK.
SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER.
Hester Hoag, as Administratrix of the estate of John Hoag, deceased, and Betty Hoag, Plaintiff, against Henry Matthews and Roscoe Hardware Co., Inc., Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly granted in the above entitled action, and entered in Ulster County Clerk's office, on the 13th day of December, 1923, I, John T. Cahill, the undersigned, Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Court House in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, N. Y., on the 25th day of January, 1924, at 12 o'clock noon, the premises described in said judgment, as follows, viz: All that tract or parcel of land situate in the Town of Hardenburgh, County of Ulster and State of New York, described in a deed from Grace E. Miller to John Hoag and Betty Hoag, his wife, dated December 10, 1919, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office September 16, 1920 in book of deeds 477 at page 57, and known as that part of Lot 172, in Division 3, Great Lot 4 Robinson Tract, Hardenburgh Patent, which lies between the center of the Beaverkill stream as it winds and turns in its course through said Lot 172, and the line of the Julius Bishop farm being the southwesterly part of said lot.
